

Best Congress Presentation Award – 8th COFAP Congress

We are pleased to announce the Best Congress Presentation Award for the upcoming 8th COFAP Congress, scheduled for March 21-22, 2025. This award will recognize the most outstanding presentation delivered at this year's congress, celebrating excellence in conceptualization, originality, and contribution to the field of couple and family psychoanalysis.

Award Details:

The winner of the Best Article Award will receive the exceptional opportunity to have their article published in one of the most prominent English-language journals in the field of Couple and Family Psychoanalysis: “Couple and Family Psychoanalysis” (ISSN 2044 4133).

An international journal sponsored by the Tavistock Institute of Medical Psychology, which aims to promote the theory and practice of working with couple and family relationships from a psychoanalytic perspective.

If the winning presentation is written in a language other than English, the IPA Couple and Family Psychoanalysis Committee (COFAP) will provide a free professional translation into English, ensuring broader accessibility and impact for the author's work.

Once the presentation is selected the author will need to adapt it to the publishing criteria of the journal following the submission guidelines. For full details on submissions, visit:

In addition, this achievement will be highlighted in the COFAP space on the IPA website, bringing further recognition to the author and their contribution to the field.

Eligibility & Selection Criteria:

All articles submitted for the 8th COFAP Congress will be automatically entered into consideration for this award. If by any chance you are not interested in participating in the award proposal, please, let us know when you send us your contribution to the congress. A panel of distinguished judges from the international board members of the editorial board of the journal will review each submission based on the quality of research, innovation, and relevance to the field.

Award Presentation:

The award will be presented on March 22, 2025, during the congress closing ceremony.

We encourage all presenters to participate, and we look forward to celebrating and sharing groundbreaking work in Couple and Family Psychoanalysis!
